A RICH COAHOMA LEGACY

Coahoma Community College has a rich history, and as president, I benefit from a legacy of visionary leaders who preceded me. To uphold that heritage, during our 70th anniversary, we have engaged in strategic planning and master planning initiatives to launch Coahoma into the next 70 years with focused direction, strong programs, state-of-the-art facilities, and resources to best help our students and this community grow and prosper.

Our Strategic Plan zeros in on the college's attention to student success, workforce development, and civic engagement. These areas represent the three pillars that support our mission: to provide accessible, diverse, quality, equitable educational opportunities and support services that foster holistic growth in a student-centered learning environment.

We are committed to preparing students for college or university transfer and/or entering a skilled workforce. This is our charge. This is our mission.

The institution has risen from humble beginnings to prominence as one of the nations premier comprehensive community colleges. How far can we go in the next seventy years? With the plans we have in place, the dedication and expertise of our faculty and staff, the commitment of our students, and the spirit of partnership and hard work in our community, Coahoma Community College's future is as boundless and bright as the future of the resurging Mississippi Delta.

Remembering Eddie Charles "Smitty" Smith

Eddie Charles "Smitty" Smith was born on November 27, 1935 to the late Emres and Rosie Lee Cole-Smith in Friars Point, Mississippi.

Smitty joined Union Grove M. B. Church under the leadership of the late Dr. L. C. Tyler.

He attended Friars Point Elementary School, Aggie High School and Coahoma Junior College. Later, he attended and earned a Bachelor of Science Degree and graduate credits from Tennessee State University in Nashville, a Master's Degree in Cell Physiology from the University of Mississippi, and a Specialist Degree in Bio-Chemistry from the University of Mississippi.

Before launching a teaching career, Smitty had planned on attending medical school in Chicago, but no money and funds were available. Instead he accepted a position at Carver High School in Columbus, TN, teaching general science, chemistry and biology for five years, directing the drill team, photographing athletic events and selling novelty item for extra income. On weekends and during summers, he studied at numerous schools: Moorehead State, Texas Southern, Oakridge, Christian Brothers, the University of Southern Illinois, and he became a National Science Fellow. In 1965, he was accepted into graduate school at the University of Mississippi and in the spring of 1966, he began his distinguished career in education teaching science at Coahoma Community College. Additionally, he taught General Biology, Human Anatomy and Physiology, and Nutrition. Included among the sacrifices Smitty personally reflected on were the lunch counter sit-in demonstrations while attending Tennessee State in Nashville and the James Meredith voter registration marches following the integration of Ole Miss. As a work study student in Law School at the University of Mississippi, Smitty was the only African-American enrolled there at the time.

In the early 1970s, Smitty jumped into Coahoma County Democratic Party politics, was elected supervisor from Beat 4, and continued in office until 2004. With his long tenure in office, Smitty had rapport with state legislators and was instrumental in gaining support for many projects at Coahoma including the Allied Health Center and the Coahoma Higher Education Center.

As a student and faculty, Smitty served under four presidents in the capacity of science teacher, alumni director, and sports announcer as Voice of the Tigers. He also became immersed in the Humanities and Lyceum enrichment programs; he excelled in photography embraced initially for the College yearbook, and he supervised student recruitment. As a student at Coahoma Junior College, he played basketball and football, sang in the choir, and played saxophone and tuba in the band. He was proud of the progress made at Coahoma and the direction the college is taking. He desired more aggressive recruitment in elite academic areas and athletes. Smitty also challenged individuals who benefited from an education at Coahoma to spread the word about its excellence - to give something back - dollars and children as future students. "Look your best, behave appropriately, and talk to students like a surrogate parent," were his words of advice to student recruiters.

He was preceded in death by his father, Emres Smith; his mother, Rosie Lee Cole-Smith; grandmother, Lessie Brooks, and his brother, Robert Cole.

Smitty is survived by his wife, Nancy Williams Smith of Clarksdale, Mississippi; three sons, Marti and Marcellas Smith of Durham, North Carolina and Joseph Spencer of Clarksdale, Mississippi; one niece/daughter, Mandolin Smith of Clarksdale, Mississippi; one granddaughter/ daughter, Jori Spencer Smith and one granddaughter, Kamryn Smith of Clarksdale, Mississippi; four grandsons, Jamon Smith and Noah Smith of Durham, North Carolina, Jordan Bailey and Korben Wade of Clarksdale, Mississippi; seven sisters-in-law, and three brothers-in-law. He also leaves a special son and friend, Brian James of Clarksdale, Mississippi.

HEADWAE

Student of the Year

Yasmine K. Harper

Yasmine Harper is a native of the Mississippi Delta, where she currently resides in Lambert. She describes herself as being nothing short of hard working and overachieving.

Harper is a sophomore at Coahoma where she serves as the 2018-19 Student Government Association president. Yasmine is also a member of the cheerleading team, a member of the Phi Theta Kappa honor society, as well as the Up to Us non-partisan campaign leader. Yasmine enjoys making anyone she comes into contact with smile, and she feels as if it is her duty to give everyone she encounters at CCC a positive experience. Yasmine has recently completed her studies in both English and Mass Communications and is eager to pick up her first love, History in the Spring. Upon completion at Coahoma Community College, she plans to further her education at Fisk University where she has been recently admitted.

“To receive this honor was overwhelming. To know that my diligence is not in vain is warming and comforting. Of course, I work hard because I want to secure my future and I serve others because it is the only way of leading. But it is good to be recognized,” stated Harper. “I owe all honor and glory to God as well as those who support me and push me. I’m very grateful and still very humbled by this high honor.”

Appreciation Day activities included honoree recognition by political and corporate groups, educators from public and independent MAC member institutions and others who value and support excellence in higher education. Honorees were invited to tour the State Capitol where they were welcomed by legislative officials, followed by a recognition and awards luncheon program made possible by the support and generosity of Mississippi's corporate community.

HEADWAE
Teacher of the Year

Barbara Boschert, J.D., Ph.D.

Barbara Boschert, history instructor and chair of the Social Science Department, and Yasmine Harper, CCC Student Government Association president, have been selected to represent Coahoma Community College at the 32nd Annual Higher Education Appreciation Day—Working for Academic Excellence (HEADWAE) Program. The event is slated to take place on Tuesday, February 26, 2019, in Jackson, Miss.

The HEADWAE program was established by the Mississippi Legislature to annually honor the scholastically talented students and exceptional faculty members of Mississippi's higher education institutions. The goal of the program is to recognize and thank these remarkable individuals for their commitment to the future of the State of Mississippi.

Dr. Rolonda Brown, dean of the Division of Academic Affairs, is elated with the selection of these Coahoma trailblazers and believes they are fitting representatives of the institution.
"Yasmine was chosen for HEADWAE because she is an outstanding student. She has displayed distinctive leadership on campus while demonstrating academic excellence. Dr. Boschert was selected because she has made extraordinary contributions to teaching and learning at Coahoma Community College," said Brown.

HEADWAE Appreciation Day is enormously significant in that it provides an opportunity for Mississippi colleges and universities to showcase and honor their best. Each year, member institutions of the Mississippi Association of Colleges and Universities (MAC), select a student and faculty member to be recognized during Appreciation Day Activities. The honorees are students who have excelled academically and faculty members who have made extraordinary educational and civic contributions on campuses and in their communities.

Barbara Boschert believes that CCC's greatest strength is its ability to academically prepare underprepared students for work or higher education.

Boschert joined CCC in 2008. She holds a bachelor's degree in history and political science and a Juris Doctorate (J.D.) degree from the University of Arkansas. She also holds a master's degree in History Education from Delta State University and is a doctorate in Educational Leadership. In 2004, the National Board of Professional Teaching Standards granted her national board certification to teach Social Studies to adolescents and young adults. She is also certified as a Master Teacher of Economics by the National Council of Economics Education.

Boschert is humbled by this honor and is truly proud of Yasmine and her achievements.
"I am honored and humbled to represent CCC and to accompany Yasmine Harper, one of our most outstanding students, to HEADWAE. Watching Yasmine excel both academically and as a student leader has been exciting. As her history teacher, I am very proud that she will continue to study history with the ultimate goal of completing her Ph.D.

Humanitarian of the Year

Dr. Kishiki K. Hall

English/Foreign Language Department

Dr. Kishki Kamaranell Hall is employed as an educator at Coahoma Community College where she teaches public speaking and inspires everyone who seeks her tutelage and wisdom! She is also the English IV teacher for Coahoma Early College High School as well as a motivational speaker. She earned a Bachelor of Arts in Mass Communication from Mississippi Valley State University and a Master of Science in Mass Communication from Arkansas State University, both with an emphasis in Radio/TV Broadcasting. She earned and received the Doctorate of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in Community College Leadership from Mississippi State University where she finished with a 4.0 GPA. After completing her doctoral degree, Kishki returned to Arkansas State University and earned a Master of Science in Communication Studies. She was recommended to the Mississippi Community College Leadership Academy by former president, Dr. Vivian M. Presley. Kishki successfully completed and graduated from the MCCLA Spring 2012. She is also a nationally ordained licensed evangelist/missionary in the Church of God in Christ. Kishki worked in radio approximately seven years before totally devoting her time and energy to academia.

Dr. Hall has taught a total of 14 years and is as passionate about educating the youth today as she was in her first year of teaching. She started teaching at Coahoma Community College in 2004 as an adjunct instructor. She taught full time at her alma mater East Side High School from 2004 to 2010. She is a certified educator in the K-12 sector with endorsements in English and speech. While at ESH, she taught public speaking, debate, and English II. Before ESH closed, Kishki was well known and loved for her special gift to organize great debates, plays, and annual African American heritage programs. Dr. Hall believes that students and people in general will only perform and rise to the expectations set for them. Dr. Hall's pedagogical methods are based on the premise that every student can achieve excellence if he or she is provided the proper tools to do so.

Other than mass communication, Dr. Hall's research interests are African American history and African American literature. Whether or not nontraditional students' needs are met in higher education is also an interest of Kishki. Her dissertation topic/title was "An investigation of a rural community college meeting the needs of nontraditional students."

Dr. Hall is the daughter of Doris Hall of Cleveland, MS. Dr. Hall is a member of New Morning Star Church of God in Christ, under the leadership of Elder Walter S. Dixon. Before Kishki was even a teenager, she had begun the work of an evangelist by speaking and motivating people of all ages to keep the faith in God. Her motto is the Word of God: "I CAN DO ALL THINGS THROUGH CHRIST WHO CONSTANTLY GIVES ME STRENGTH AND NO WEAPON FORMED AGAINST ME SHALL PROSPER."

Personal Principle: Always keep moving because the journey is NOT about how one starts, but about how one finishes!
